

FUTURE PROJECT:

When I have acquired more skills in data journalism, I would like to investigate on systemic discrimination. Data is interesting because it reveals these kinds of systemic problems, even with big data. In a couple of seconds, thanks to spreadsheets, you can notice trends that might be very revealing of our system. My interests include gender and racial discrimination in all segments of society.

When I have more skills in Java Script, I would like to create animations that will allow me to lay out the issues to contribute to the collective awareness necessary to build a more inclusive society.